Dedicated to . . . Originality

I feel somewhat obligated to make this dedication to originality stunningly, sparklingly, and devastatingly original, but perhaps the irony of a few clichés can serve to emphasize the point. So here's to you, loose screw, sore thumb, different drum, from the class of '79. We go forth, we hope, uniquely.

Student Council

The Student Council, after early organization problems due to the lack of an advisor, arranged school elections and helped make new adjustments in school policy. The council experienced further conflicts with the switchover to the Tisbury School, but finally united to plan various fund raising events to provide a scholarship for a deserving senior.

Due to the unstable conditions surrounding this year's council, participation was not as successful as expected, but we hope that future M students will take the initiative to become involved in their school.

Membership in the National Honor Society carries with it a great deal of prestige and merit. Enrollment is predicated on academic achievement, service to the school and community, character, and demonstration of leadership qualities. Members are chosen under advisement of a faculty council.

The object of this organization is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, and to encourage the development of character in all students.

Activities during this year included a formal Induction Dinner, contributions to the community welfare, and educational field trips.

The Regional High School A.F.S. club this year was extremely active. We had a good-sized club of 40 members, all of whom have entertained our guest from West Germany, Ilka Schwabe. Our fleamarket and carwash were a great success. Our carnation sales were up 200% over last year, and the profits sent ten of our members to Belfast, Maine, for a week. Also, we had our Co-President, Sarah Norton, travel as an A.F.S. exchange student to Kenya, Africa.

I would like to thank this year's club members and encourage other students to join next year.

Yearbook Staff

When I took on this job in November of '77, I had a feeling it would be quite difficult. And so it has been, but with the help of a few dedicated members of this committee, we've managed to put together what we hope is a well-made book.

Many thanks go to Mrs. Jackie Baer, who put up with all of my various photographic requests, and without whom this book would not have been possible.

Hiking Club

The hiking club, in its first year of existence, has set out to develop a keen awareness of nature and the ecology, both on and off the Island; an understanding of self-sufficiency; and the development of working in a community in the out of doors.

Designs for the year include several "on-Island" trips, a possible ski outing, and a five day hiking trip to Mount Washington in New Hampshire in June. Typically, a backpacking trip would involve journeying into a "wilderness" area leaving behind all the "comforts" we're so accustomed to — a person can only rely on his skills and the provisions he can comfortably carry on his back.

SENIORS

Sitting: Secretary Polly Brown, Treasurer Kris Wade. Standing: Historian Ann Voorhees, Vice-President Chris Oliver. Absent: President Tom McHugh.

1979 Class History

The time has come for each and every senior to sort out and bring together the four years of learning, development, happiness, and tears we have all experienced. Next year we will begin a new stage of life, be it college or pursuing a career.

When the new freshmen of 1975 first entered the doors of M.V.R.H.S., there was a considerable amount of mixed emotions. Our minds slowly began to accept the fact that 'this is high school', even though, for the most part, our hearts were still back in our individual elementary schools. Sports, committees, and other extracurricular activities brought the talented people into perspective, and the upper classmen appeared not so fierce as the many legends had painted them.

One particular activity brought all of us together — the class meetings. Our first meeting unified us while we discussed money making schemes. The Linden tree became the focal point for the first of many somewhat successful bakesales. When our freshman year had finally been completed, many sighed relief and knew the worst was over. No one could call us dumb little freshmen anymore.

Our sophomore year was easily 10 degrees warmer than our first had been. We had one year under our belts and only three to go. It was during this year that we began to broaden our activities, which ranged from fall sports to a springtime trip to France. Academically, though, this, our second year, proved to be a slump. Also, we just couldn't seem to throw the title of being "little" yet. Not until our junior year.

Even though there was a bit of confusion as to what exactly a junior was supposed to be, we did consider ourselves "upper classmen". Although our class advisors had had a hard time organizing us throughout the years, this particular one proved to be the biggest nightmare so far. Here it was, time to plan the Prom, and our bankbook wasn't exactly bursting. Along with the money situation there came the question of the type of Prom we'd like to have. The growing disco craze presented arguments as to what kind of music we would be dancing to. Thanks to the concentrated forces of a few juniors, we managed to swing a successful event. Our third year was one that just about everyone enjoyed. We had finally begun to enter the ranks of adults.

Now we are seniors and the continuing pressures of college applications has become a haunting situation. We have experienced, and are still experiencing, wild and crazy parties, transient romances, and frequent trips off our little island. (We're reading up on the dangers of asbestos as well!) It is proving to be as interesting as last year as it must prove for seniors of any era.

High school has been unique. We've learned from each other, and sometimes the learning experience has been a difficult situation. Now all we have left is to wait for that joyous June day and the lives we shall all seek out.

In Memory

Lisa Gail Arcudi
May 20, 1961 —
November 29, 1978

The Lisa I remember
was a little girl walking down
the street
kicking autumn leaves
with her feet
on her way to wherever little girls go to play.

The Lisa I remember
was a little girl
picking up a dead bird
and carrying it to the grass, for
its final resting place.

The Lisa I remember
was furious
with her brother
for teasing her on a day
when she didn't
need
to be teased.

The Lisa I remember
was proud of that same
little brother
and applauded more vigorously
than anyone else for his singing.

The Lisa I remember
held her little sister by the hand
and helped her put makeup on
for a performance.

The Lisa I remember
waved as she jogged down
the path.

The Lisa I remember
waved to me outside of Dr. Finkelstein's last summer . . . and dropped the bag she was carrying. She and her friend couldn't stop laughing.

The Lisa I remember
was very serious at times.

The Lisa I remember
loved life — and like all teenagers, she was impatient to see it all, feel it all, know it all!

The Lisa I remember
will be in all things new
and beautiful and exciting —
in every rainbow, every dance,
every young bird eager to try its wings
Because there will always be music and dance and autumn leaves and snowfalls and soft breezes and giggling little girls, there will always be the memory of Lisa.
